1 Cookies

1.1 What are Cookies?

A Cookie is a small text file that is stored on your computer when visiting a website. This text file stores information that can be read by the website when visiting it again at a later date. Cookies can be installed by the server of the website you visit or by partners of that website. A website's server can only read the Cookies it has installed itself, and has no access to other information found in your computer or mobile device. Cookies are stored in the folder of your browser on your computer or mobile device. Cookies generally make the interaction between the visitor and the website faster and easier, and help the visitor navigate between the different parts of a website. Some of these Cookies are necessary because otherwise the site is unable to function properly. Other Cookies are convenient for the visitor: they remember your username in a secure way as well as your language preferences, for example. Cookies mean that you do not need to fill out the same information each time you visit a website.

When you access our website eos-globalcollection.com, the browser used on your device automatically sends information to our website's server. This data is temporarily stored in a log file. The following information is collected without your intervention and stored until it is automatically deleted after 3 days:

- o IP address retrieval from the computer,
- o date and time of access,
- o name and URL of retrieved file,
- o website from which access has occurred (referrer URL),
- o website retrieved from our website,
- o the browser of your computer and possibly the operating system as well as the name of your internet service provider.

The aforementioned data will be processed by us for the following purposes:

- o to ensure a problem-free connection to the website,
- o to ensure a comfortable use of our website,
- o to analyse system security, stability, and
- o for other administrative purposes.

The legal basis for processing the data Art. 6(1) Paragraph 1(f) of the GDPR. Our legitimate interests derive from the above-mentioned data collection purposes. Under no circumstances will we use the collected data for profiling or making automated decisions about your person. If you do so, the personal data you send via email will be stored. The legal basis for data processing for contact purposes is Article 6(1)(f) of the GDPR. If contact is made with a view to concluding an agreement, an additional legal basis for processing is Art. (6)(1)(b) of the GDPR.

1.2 Where do Cookies come from?

Based on the origin of Cookies, we make a distinction between first-party and third-party Cookies.

1.2.1 First-party Cookies

First-party Cookies are direct Cookies that we manage ourselves. They are specific to the Site or the EOS Contentia online service such as the debtor or partner portal. It is the online service that creates and places the Cookies in order to function properly, for example.

1.2.2 Third party Cookies

Third party Cookies are Cookies that are managed or placed by a third party and not by ourselves. This happens during your visit or use of a EOS Contentia online service. Third party Cookies therefore ensure that certain data is sent to third parties through your visit or use of an online service. These are, for example, social media Cookies or Cookies from advertisers, which ensure that you get to see advertisements. Although we do not manage or place these Cookies ourselves, we do our utmost to ensure that the placement of these Cookies by third parties via our platforms is as controlled as possible.

1.3 How does EOS Contentia use Cookies?

EOS Contentia uses Cookies to help us provide you with a better user experience tailored to your personal preferences. By using Cookies EOS Contentia makes sure that you do not receive or need to enter the same information every single time you visit the EOS Contentia website. Cookies are also used to optimize the performance of the website. Different kinds of Cookies are used on EOS Contentias' Site:

- Necessary Cookies
- Functional Cookies
- Performance Cookies
- Advertisement Cookies
- Recommendations Cookies
- Social media Cookies

1.3.1 Necessary Cookies

These Cookies are indispensable for visiting our websites and using certain parts of the websites. For instance, they allow you to navigate between the different parts of the website, and fill in forms.

We use these Cookies to guarantee the following benefits, among others:

- Remember information that you enter or indicate on the various pages. This way, you do not always have to fill in or indicate all your data or preferences again.
- Save settings for an optimal video display, such as the desired buffer size and the resolution data of your screen.
- Read out your browser settings for an optimal display of our website on your screen.

- Fill in the advertising space on our website in the best possible technical way. This enables us to avoid that the same advertisements are shown all the time, advertisers can measure the impact of the advertisements, or we can detect and tackle possible abuses via the advertising space.
- Load the website evenly, so that it remains accessible at all times.

No permission is required for the use of these Cookies and they cannot be disabled.

1.3.2 Functional Cookies

Functional Cookies are Cookies that make it easier for our websites to work, make them more pleasant for visitors, and ensure that you have a more personalized browsing experience. For example, these Cookies can remember your language choice and customer segment.

1.3.3 Performance Cookies

We use performance Cookies to obtain information about visitors' use of our websites, in order to improve the content of our websites, adapt them to the wishes of visitors, and make them more user-friendly. For instance, there is a Cookie that counts the number of unique visitors, and a Cookie that keeps track of the most popular pages.

Performance Cookies are also called statistical Cookies. They collect general information about how our online services are used. We may make statistical analyses of the information we obtain in this way. How did you end up on our webpage? Which (mobile) application do you spend most of your time on? Thanks to statistical results we can make the structure, navigation and content of our online services as user-friendly as possible. We also use this data to report on EOS Contentia performance or in the context of surveys in which we participate.

1.3.4 Advertisement Cookies

Advertisement Cookies track your browsing behavior on our websites to build your user profile. This profile is then used to show you advertisements that match your personal interests.

Advertisement Cookies can only collect data that tells you something about your use of the website. Personal identification data such as your name or address, which you have entered in your EOS Contentia profile, for example, will not be used for this purpose. We will always ask for your permission to display customized ads on our online services. We do this through the Cookie settings that appear on your screen when you use our online services. You can also revoke your consent using the same settings at any time.

For your understanding, even if you have not given your consent, you will still see or hear advertisements on our online services. This advertising will then only be less relevant, because it will not be adapted to your likely interests. So we leave it up to you to choose whether or not to receive tailored advertisements.

Cookies for remarketing – This website uses Cookies which, based on the pages you visit on this website, keeps a tally of the products or services you may be interested in. Through these Cookies and with the tools of the Google advertising network (Google Analytics), we can show you ads on other websites that are part of Google’s advertising network for products and services you may be interested in. This technique is called “remarketing”. These Cookies do not contain any personal data.

1.3.5 Recommendation Cookies

Recommendation Cookies - just like advertising Cookies - follow your browsing behavior to create your user profile. That profile is then used to give you an online experience that matches your interests. These Cookies tell us something about your use of our online services so that we can make more targeted recommendations and suggestions. Furthermore, these Cookies ensure that the information you have already viewed do not appear as suggestions again. In this way, we hope to bring you into contact with new information that you might find interesting and that you might not have thought of right away.

1.3.6 Social Media Cookies

Social Media Cookies are used to enable the integration of social networking sites on our websites. Our online services may contain embedded elements from third parties. This may be content stored with another party but displayed on, in or via our online services. In addition, EOS Contentia content can be shared by buttons on social networking sites on our online services. Examples of these social media are Facebook, Google+, YouTube, LinkedIn and Twitter. These third parties may place Cookies on our online services in order to collect data. We ourselves have no influence on what those social media do with their Cookies. For more information about these Cookies, we would like to refer you to the statements that these third parties provide on their own websites. Please note that these statements may change from time to time.

1.4 How long will Cookies last

Based on the existence of Cookies, we make a distinction between temporary and permanent Cookies.

Temporary Cookies are stored temporarily in your browser or (mobile) application. This means that those Cookies are deleted as soon as you close your browser or (mobile) application.

Permanent Cookies remain on your computer or mobile device, even if you have closed your browser or (mobile) application. Thanks to permanent Cookies we can recognise you when you visit our website or (mobile) application again later. Persistent Cookies remain on your device until a pre-defined end date is reached, until a new Cookie is installed, or until you delete them via the settings of your browser, (mobile) application or mobile device.

1.5.6 List of Social Media Cookies

Shariff solution

We use Shariff buttons from social networks Facebook, Twitter, Google+, LinkedIn and Xing on our website. The buttons are simple HTML links. The procedure we use fits within the framework of the Shariff solution. With the Shariff solution, a script retrieves the number of times, e.g. the share button on a page is clicked: the script contacts the social network via the programming interfaces and retrieves the numbers. None of your personal data is sent in the process. Instead of your IP address, only the address of our server is sent to Google, Facebook and Twitter. You will only be directly connected to Facebook, Google or Twitter if you perform an action. Previously, the social networks cannot collect any data about you. As long as you do not click on a link to share content, you will remain invisible to the networks. If you click on a link, the obligation to provide information about data collection and processing no longer rests with us, but rather with the social network operator.

YouTube videos

Our website contains links to videos from YouTube LLC, 901 Cherry Ave, San Bruno, CA 94066, USA. If you visit a website on our website that contains such a video, a direct connection is established between your browser and the YouTube server after you have activated the video.

YouTube receives the information that you have visited our website with your IP address. When you click on the link to the video, your IP address will be forwarded to YouTube. We would like to point out that, as provider of our website, we are not aware of the content of the data transmitted or of its use by YouTube. For more information, please refer to this YouTube privacy statement (<https://www.youtube.com/>).

1.6 Your consent

Your consent is not required for necessary and functional cookies. The data processed via these cookies serve the stated purposes to protect our legitimate interests in accordance with Article 6.1(f) of the GDPR, including the proper functioning of the website.

The data collected and processed through preference, statistical and marketing cookies will only be used if you give your consent in accordance with Article 6(1)(a) of the GDPR for the provision of personalised content, for statistical purposes to improve the user experience and for marketing purposes. You can change/withdraw your consent by clicking on 'Change Cookies settings' at the bottom of the Site.
